STOPS PAIN

Athens, Tenn., Jan. 27, 1901.
Ever since the first appearance of my meninges they were very irregular and I suffered with great pain in my hips, back, stomach and legs, with terrible bearing down pains in the abdomen. During the past month I have been taking Wine of Cardui and the terrible Black-Drugs and I passed the monthly period without pain for the first time in years.

NANNIE DAVIS.

What is life worth to a woman suffering like Nannie Davis suffered? Yet there are women in thousands of homes to-day who are bearing those terrible menstrual pains in silence. If you are one of these we want to say that this same will bring you permanent relief. Console yourself with the knowledge that 1,000,000 women have been completely cured by Wine of Cardui. These women suffered from leucorrhoea, irregular menses, headache, backache, and bearing down pains. Wine of Cardui will stop all these aches and pains for you. Purchase a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui to-day and take it in the privacy of your home.

Drying preparations simply developed catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all dry, irritating, fumous, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 55 Warren St., N.Y. The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It soothes itself, over an irritated and inflamed surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation. With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

THE MAN EATER

"The man eater is mad!"

I looked at the tall Texan apprehensively.

"Are you certain?" I asked.

"I know it. I had my suspicions yesterday, and now there is no doubt of it."

This was serious. The man eater was the largest and most ferocious bloodhound in Texas. It was hard enough to control him at any time, but mad! I shuddered at the thought.

My week's visit at the Bolton ranch had satisfied me that my host really cared for only two things in the world—his daughters and the man eater.

"Where is Miss Sallie?" I inquired anxiously.

"Oh, that's all right," replied Bolton carelessly. "Sallie took her pony and went for a ride an hour ago, and the hound is safe enough.

I took him by the collar just now and locked him up where he won't get at anybody. But it breaks me up, old fellow. I wouldn't lose him for anything."

My interest began to weaken.

Miss Sallie was safe, and the dog was locked up. What was a bloodhound to me? If the savage monster died, so much the better.

I walked off to the stable. A ride over the prairie was not to be missed on such a morning, and there would be a chance of riding back with Sallie.

But I was doomed to disappointment. My horse was lame. It did not take long to convince me that somebody had been riding him the night before.

Just then Pedro came in sight.

The ugly little Mexican gave a start when he saw me and looked away.

"You yellow rascal!" I shouted.

"You had my horse last night!"

"No, senor."

"You are lying?"

"No, by all the saints, senor."

"Then where were you at midnight?"

"I was attending to my business," snapped Pedro.

He looked so viciously mean and so impudent that I gave him a light cut with my whip and told him to get out of my sight. He muttered something and slunk off. There was no other animal that I cared to ride, and I made up my mind to walk.

I had left the ranch several hundred yards behind me when I turned and looked back. Even at that distance I could plainly recognize Pedro. He was walking around a little cabin, back of the kitchen and was apparently peeping through the cracks.

"Looking at the man eater?" I said to myself. "It is a good thing

the beast is locked up."

The bracing morning air and the level prairie stretching out before me for miles tempted me to take a long walk. A long way off I could see a hill, the only one in all that flat country. Why not climb it and see what was on the other side? Perhaps Sallie was over there.

So I walked on with swinging strides for a couple of miles.

Suddenly I came to a dead halt.

"That sounds like the man eater's bark!" I exclaimed. Again I heard turned to cast a backward glance I could see the dog more plainly than ever.

One thing encouraged me; he did not appear to see me, but blundered on in a clumsy, dazed sort of way.

There were no streams to cross, nothing that would throw him off the scent. I had no weapon, only a small pocketknife, and a fight with a mad dog was out of the question.

My strength was giving out, and I felt that the end was not far off.

When I again looked back, the dog was not more than 300 yards away, and the base of the hill was still a mile off.

A spasm of terror seized me, but to my surprise the great brute suddenly sat down on his haunches and howled plaintively.

It was a minute or two before he found the trail again. If his malady had dimmed his sight and confused him, there was still a chance for me, but it was a slim one.

With a tremendous effort I broke forward on my last run. This time

I would reach the hill or turn at the last moment and die, making a vain effort to choke the monster.

The blood rushed to my head, and I could hardly see anything as I darted on at the top of my speed.

The hound was rapidly making headway and at last seemed to have me in view. A glance over my shoulder showed him not a hundred yards behind.

Everything was in a whirl. Somebody was riding out from behind the hill and coming my way. The hat, the riding habit—I could not be mistaken—it was Sallie Bolton.

But my race was nearly run. Even with help in sight I could bear up no longer. The girl was riding like wind, and I could see that she had a lasso in one hand.

I knew that this cattle queen, as the cowboys called her, could do anything almost with a lasso, but would she get there in time?

The man eater came bounding on, and Sallie rode straight at him like a little thunderbolt. She whirled the lasso over and over around her head, and—but it was too late. I could hear the dog panting behind me.

A wave of darkness rolled over me as I fell to the ground just as I heard something swish through the air.

But I was up in a minute—just in time to see my rescuer give a pull that tightened the lasso around the dog's neck. A few convulsions, and the dog was strangled—dead within six feet of me. My thanks were cut short by the appearance of a light wagon driven by one of Bolton's neighbors, who offered to take me back to the ranch, an invitation not to be declined under the circumstances.

Sallie Bolton rode on ahead, and when I reached the house her father was waiting to congratulate me upon my escape. "It was Pedro's work," he said. "He unlocked the door and set the dog on your trail—at least I think so. He had a key, and he has disappeared."

Undoubtedly it was Pedro. He had been trying to pay me back.

I have never seen the Boltons since my adventure with the man eater, but I am not likely to forget the little cattle queen while I live.

He Meant the Bird.

Some time ago a man got a curious present from a sea captain. It was a fine specimen of the bird which the sailors call the "laughing jackass," and he was not a little proud of it. As he was carrying it home he met a brawny Irish navy, who stopped him and asked:

"Phwat kind of burrd is that, sorr?"

"That's a laughing jackass," explained the owner genially.

The Irishman, thinking he was being made fun of, was equal to the occasion and responded with a twinkle of the eye:

"It's not verself; it's the burrd Oi mane, sorr!"—London Tit-Bits.

A Patron of the Realistic School.

"Do you prefer realism or the ideal in art?" asked Mrs. Oldcastle as they sat down in a corner of the magnificent library of the new neighbors.

"Oh," said her hostess, "I would not have anything but realism as long as we can afford it. Of course if people ain't got much money I s'pose that them chromes are better than nothing for the poor things, but I just told Josiah when we commenced building—that place that there wouldn't be anything except real paintings in it if I could have my way, and every picture here is realism."—Chicago Record-Herald.

ABOUT BEN ADHEM.

About Ben Adhem, may his tribe increase, Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace.

And saw within the moonlight of his room, Making it rich and like a boy in bloom, An angel writing in a book of gold.

Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem bold, And to the vision in his room he said, "What writest thou?" The angel raised his head

And in a voice made all of sweet accord Answered, "The names of those who love the Lord."

"And is mine one?" said Abou. "Nay," not so,

Replied the presence. Abou spoke more low,

But clearly still, "I pray thee then, Write me as one who loves his fellow men."

The angel wrote and vanished. The next night

He came with a great wakening light And showed the names of those whom love of God had blessed.

And lo! Ben Adhem's name led all the rest. —LEIGH HUNT.

CHICKENS, DUCKS AND GAME

Nearly every farmer either shoots game himself or has a boy or two who does, and during the season the game that finds its way on to his table is no inconsiderable amount. This is as it should be, for no one has any better right to it, and no one who kills it is so directly benefited by it. It is generally killed without the loss of time, and he, being on the ground where it is easily found, it is taken with no expense except the bare cost of ammunition. Again, every pound of game that is consumed by his family gives him just that many more pounds of the products of his soil and labor to send to the market, and this during the season, to the average farmer, amounts to considerable. He therefore has a direct interest in those laws enacted for the purpose of continuing the supply.

The sale of game in the markets has also a direct influence upon the farmer. When the game season opens the sale of young pigeons ceases entirely. The sale of chickens and tame ducks drops off materially and the prices go down as soon as wild ducks are placed on the market. The price of eggs is also affected. The farmer, then, is interested in the prohibition of the sale of game. First, because it affects the sale and price of his produce, and, secondly, because it tends to diminish the supply from which he draws, in part, to feed his family. It is to his interest to see that this supply is preserved, and it can only be maintained by the observance of those laws enacted for that purpose. Every farmer is the master of his own land, and he should constitute himself a game warden and drive every violator of the law from his premises.

BREVITIES

Ed H. Johansen has leased the Doyle place three miles west of town.

To night a grand entertainment and social dance will be held at Glen Ellen.

L. Modini's Garibaldi House, with its new coat of paint, looks as bright as a new dollar.

Charles Dalpogetto will shortly erect a new cottage on his recent purchase on Broadway.

James Tate is shipping 150 tons of hay from his farm south of town to San Francisco.

Handsome buggy robes and serviceable whips at Chas. Wilson's, Main street, Petaluma.

There will be a special meeting of the High School Trustees on Saturday afternoon, September 13th.

Chas. Wilson, the only first class harness maker in Petaluma. His place of business is on Main st.

Wanted—A small place in or near Sonoma; house of three or four rooms. Apply to this office.

Your harness repaired for little money and a good job guaranteed. Chas. Wilson, Main st., Petaluma.

The ladies of the Congregational Church of this place will give a grand concert and bazaar at Union Hall on the evening of November 14th.

Help Wanted—Salesmen to sell $20 typewriter. Will do equally as good work as any $100 machine. Good pay to hustlers. 710 New Life Bldg, Chicago.

Sonoma is to have another harness maker. He is a first class workman and, what is more, will attend to his own business and let other people's alone.

The members of the Woman's Club are requested to attend the meeting this afternoon at 2:30. The election of officers and other important business will be transacted.

The Prunty place has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. John Rosser of Tomales for $7000. This year's crop goes to the sellers. The sale was made by Ed Johansen of this place.

Labor day was observed here by the clerks in our large merchandise store. Part of the day was spent in swimming in Sonoma creek. Boys, where did you get your abbreviated costumes?

The merchants of Sonoma have unanimously agreed to close their respective places of business on Monday evening, September 8th, and remain closed all day on September 9th, Admission Day.

The proprietors of Mark West Springs have received 50,000 young trout from the fish hatchery at Ukiah, which have been placed in the creek at the springs. This will insure good fishing in that stream next season.

Hon. Robert Howe of this place has been elected a member of the Democratic State Central Committee for this, the Fourteenth Assembly district. E. E. Drees of Petaluma is the member to represent the Thirteenth Assembly district. Mr. Howe is also the chairman of the Second district Democratic Congressional Committee.

COUNTY REPUBLICANS MEET

And Nominate a Ticket That Will Be Hard to Beat—Full Account of the Proceedings

The Republican county convention which met in Santa Rosa last Wednesday morning concluded its labors late in the afternoon of that day by nominating the following ticket:

State Senator—E. F. Woodward.
Assemblyman, 13th district—F. A. Cromwell.
Assemblyman, 14th district—Victor Piezzi.
Superior Judge—A. G. Burnett.
Superior Judge—S. K. Dougherty.

Sheriff—J. K. Smith.
County Clerk—Will S. Adams.
District Attorney—Charles H. Pond.

Auditor—W. C. Nolan.
Recorder—F. G. Nagle.
Coroner and Public Administrator—Frank L. Blackburn.

Superintendent of Schools—Miss Leonore Gautier.
Assessor—J. Willis Goodman.
Surveyor—Newton V. Smyth.

Treasurer—Glen Murdock.
Supervisor, 2d district—G. J. Armstrong.
Supervisor, 4th district—J. B. Cooley.

The convention was called to order by C. H. Adams, Chairman of the Republican County Committee.

The formal reading of the convention call was dispensed with, on motion of R. L. Thompson.

E. M. Norton of Healdsburg nominated W. B. Haskell of Petaluma for temporary chairman of the convention.

Mr. Haskell was elected by acclamation and on assuming the duties of the chair he spoke pointedly, hopefully and enthusiastically of party prospects.

His address was indeed a very fine convention speech and his remarks were frequently greeted by rounds of hearty applause.

R. L. Thompson was elected temporary secretary and Rod E. Smith assistant secretary of the convention.

On motion of R. W. Miller a committee of seven on credentials was ordered appointed by the chair.

J. M. Thompson moved that a committee of five on order of business and permanent organization be appointed and the motion prevailed.

Like action was taken in regard to a committee of five on platform and resolutions on motion of E. M. Norton of Healdsburg.

The convention then took a recess of fifteen minutes during which time Chairman Haskell selected the committees, which were reported to the convention on assembling as follows:

Credentials—G. D. Rich, chairman; John Lawlor, Mark Mitchell, C. C. Donovan, F. W. Brush, R. Starrett and Sheridan Peterson.

Order of Business—R. L. Thompson, chairman; A. W. Garrett, Wm. Hotle, J. L. Winans and W. B. Coy.

Platform and Resolutions—E. M. Norton, chairman; E. S. Fyfe, J. C. Mailer, J. M. Thompson and William Arlington.

The report of the committees having been made and accepted, a chairman for each of the several townships was selected to announce the vote of his delegation.

The nomination of candidates for Superior Judges being in order A. W. Horwege of Petaluma presented the name of Judge Samuel K. Dougherty.

A. W. Garrett of Healdsburg proposed the name of Judge Albert G. Burnett in a well considered speech.

Sheridan Peterson spoke eloquently in favor of the nomination of Judge R. F. Crawford. There were several seconds of the nomination of each of these candidates.

The ballot being taken, the vote of the candidates was as follows:

A. G. Burnett..... 183
S. K. Dougherty..... 89
R. F. Crawford..... 83

The chair announced the nomination of Judges Burnett and Dougherty. Both gentlemen were called before the convention and returned thanks for the nomination.

J. C. Mailer placed John K. Smith in nomination for Sheriff and Mr. Smith was chosen by acclamation.

E. M. Norton presented the name of C. H. Pond of Healdsburg for the nomination for District Attorney.

Sheridan Peterson seconded the nomination of Mr. Pond.

E. S. Fyfe spoke briefly in favor of the re-nomination of District Attorney O. O. Webber and Dr. S. S. Bogle seconded the same.

The taking of the ballot proceeded and it being evident that Mr. Pond had a majority of the votes, Mr. Webber spoke eloquently withdrawing his name and moving that Mr. Pond's nomination be made unanimous by acclamation.

He was heartily cheered and the motion prevailed. Mr. Pond came forward and thanked the convention and confirmed the statement made by Mr. Webber in regard to the fairness of the contest in which they had been engaged.

Hon. J. M. Thompson placed Will S. Adams of Petaluma in nomination for County Clerk.

There being no opposition, Mr.

Adams was made the unanimous choice of the convention.

For County Auditor W. C. Nolan received 102 votes and W. W. Felt 63.

For Recorder Fred Nagle received 91 votes and A. J. Atchinson 74.

For Treasurer there were three candidates, to wit: B. F. Corne, E. D. Sweetser and Glen Murdock. The first ballot resulted as follows:

Murdock 77, Corne 45, Sweetser 42. Another ballot was taken in which Murdock had 101, Sweetser 37 and Corne 25, but before the result was announced by the chair, Murdock's nomination, upon motion of E. D. Sweetser, seconded by B. F. Corne, was made unanimous.

For Assessor J. Willis Goodman was nominated without opposition.

For County Surveyor Newton V. Smyth was the unanimous choice of the convention.

For Coroner and Public Administrator the following were placed in nomination: W. F. Graham, N. King, F. L. Blackburn, L. A. Jordan and J. G. Pierce. The first ballot showed the following result: Pierce 45, Blackburn 42, Graham 33, Jordan 24, King 22. On the second ballot Blackburn had 59, Pierce 49, Jordan 15, King 1. Jordan withdrew and King's name was dropped.

The third ballot gave the nomination to Blackburn, the figures being as follows: Blackburn 83, Pierce 47, Graham 30.

For School Superintendent Miss Leonore Gautier was nominated.

Immediately after the adjournment of the county convention, the delegates reassembled as a Senatorial convention.

J. M. Thompson was called to the chair while W. B. Haskell placed E. F. Woodward in nomination for State Senator. W. S. Staley was named by George P. Lovejoy.

Woodward was nominated on the first ballot, the vote being 87 for Woodward and 63 for Staley.

The 13th assembly convention selected W. P. Haskell as chairman and Harvey Fuller secretary. Mr. Cromwell was re-nominated for Assemblyman by a unanimous vote.

The delegates from the 14th assembly district elected J. C. Mailer chairman and Carl Lane secretary.

R. M. Miller and Victor Piezzi were placed in nomination for the Assembly, Piezzi being chosen by a vote of 47 to 25.

The following were nominated for Justices and Constables in Sonoma and Glen Ellen townships:

Sonoma—Chas. H. Ohm for Constable.

Glen Ellen—Theodore Wagner for Justice and J. R. Allen for Constable.

A Narrow Escape

A remarkable escape from what might have been a serious accident occurred last week to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schell and their baby boy.

They were driving along the highway coming to town in a buggy when suddenly the horse stumbled, falling with such force that all three were precipitated headlong to the ground.

Mrs. Schell, who was holding the infant in her arms, fell directly over the child, but her elbow in striking the ground received the force of the fall and strange to relate the baby was unharmed.

Mr. Schell was also without a scratch, and jumping to his feet had no difficulty in stopping the horse, which was a gentle animal. Mrs. Schell was the only one injured, and fortunately her elbow was only slightly scratched.

EL VERANO HAPPENINGS

Wm Chance, after spending a few days in Ukiah, returned home Monday.

A Knox and Edwin Kirby of San Francisco are registered at the Bellevue Hotel.

Mr. A. C. Chance and son have returned from Dillon's Beach after an absence of two weeks.

The Wild West show passed through here Thursday morning en route to Santa Rosa. The train was composed of sixty cars.

Patsy Conlin, better known as "Peaches," will be up here from San Francisco Saturday night to participate in the social hop.

John Revis, delegate to the Republican County Convention from this place, returned home from Santa Rosa Thursday morning.

Great interest is taken here in the coming boxing bout. The El Verano boxer is in fine condition and a rattling contest is looked for.

There will be a grand ball at the Bellevue Hotel Saturday (to-night). Fine music has been engaged and everybody should cop a summer girl and attend. Randal McDonnell of Sonoma will be floor manager.

The many friends of Charley Ohm in this place were glad to hear that he had been nominated for Constable and wish him success in his canvass, as he has made the best officer the township has ever had.

William Naters and Frank Attridge of San Francisco are registered at the Bellevue. The latter is a fine singer and will be heard at the social hop Saturday night. He has a grand voice and a sweet face.

Tom Molley and Hugh Chance have received the contract for digging F. Clerici's well, and it is rumored that these two young men are about to buy this place, which will be known as the El Verano Palace.

Tom O'Rourke, the well known brakeman of the California Northwestern, was in town last Monday. He purchased a large cowbird hat while here, which he said he wanted to cover his face from those smiling fairies at Vineburg Station and also at El Verano.

Last Tuesday night the house occupied by the Kearneys narrowly escaped burning to the ground. The chimney caught fire and only for Peter Gouailhardou and Harry Baines getting on top and putting out the flames it would have been reduced to ashes.

There were four half breeds and one Irishman from this place attending the circus at Santa Rosa Thursday. They had a swell rubber-tired rig and as they drove through town they seemed to think they were the owners of the circus or the real things.

Boyes' Hot Springs are now running at full force. The owners have got all kinds of water, so the thirsty summer boarder can once more partake of El Verano booze, and should he have a big head on him the next morning he can take a hot water bath and come out of it as bright as a daisy.

El Verano is to have the honor of having the latest song. It is to be composed by Adam Yenni and will be entitled, "While He Was Chasing His Boy 'Round the Grass," and is to be sung by Felici Clerici the night that the El Verano boxer and the Sonoma Cyclone come together, which will be in the near future.

Glen Ellen News Items

Landlord Ross of the Mervyn visited San Francisco Thursday and Friday this week.

The Republican delegates to the county convention, Messrs. Gaige, Weise and Zane, spent Tuesday night and Wednesday in Santa Rosa.

Mrs. Skahan visited San Francisco Wednesday and Thursday of this week. She is a wide awake, up-to-date business woman—no flies on her.

Mr. Samoni, who formerly kept the Roma Hotel at this place but who left here some time ago to go into business in Mendocino county, has returned here with his family, en route to Italy to visit his old home.

Dr. E. C. Mervy of San Francisco has been a guest at the Hotel Mervyn several days this week. He occupied the most of his time while here in hunting and fishing. He caught a few trout and bagged a large number of doves and jack rabbits.

Mrs. Coppin has left Glen Ellen and gone to live with her daughter, Mrs. Harrison, in Berkeley. She "folded her tent like the Arabs and silently stole away." Ben Thierkoff and family have moved into the house she formerly occupied.

Katie Lee Ping has returned to the bosom of her family, after two months' sojourn in the metropolis. We have some very charming girls here but none to spare. Don't stay away so long again, Katie; we chaps miss your pleasant voice and winning ways.

Mrs. F. Ehrlich, who formerly had a lovely home in Sonoma, but who is now residing in San Francisco, came to Glen Ellen Saturday morning with her little granddaughter to visit the Justi family. They returned to the city Monday afternoon after a very enjoyable visit.

The latter part of last week Jerry Allen, the Deputy Sheriff of this burg, received a dispatch from the State of Nevada, containing the news of the serious illness of his eldest son Jesse. Mrs. Allen left at once for that State where her sickboy was living with his family but arrived at his bedside a few hours too late to see him alive.

Glen Ellen is one of the prettiest little places in the world. Nature has been very prodigal in showering her favors on this dimple of the earth. The scenery is grand, romantic and picturesque and the climate incomparable. We have no fine large plaza like Sonoma, but there is a little square with a noble flagstaff and Old Glory waves majestically over a whole pile of rags, sacks and bottles, empty tin cans, old stove pipe and broken crockery, empty boxes and "old barrels—a regular dumping ground for all unsightly, worthless trash. I wonder what visitors think when they get off the train, cross the fine iron bridge and come across the conglomeration of trash right in the heart of town? It is a disgrace to the place. Some of our enterprising citizens should be public-spirited enough to have this square cleaned up and beautified. It is small, but there are plenty of wild grape vines, roses and green grass growing there naturally if they were not choked out by the accumulated debris.

CHAPPEL.

Glen Ellen, September 4, 1902.

Thumb Crushed

by a Cog Wheel

William Helberg, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Helberg of Schellville, on Wednesday last had his right thumb badly crushed by getting it caught in the cogs of a hay cutter. The lad was brought into town for surgical treatment and now carries his hand in a sling.

Met After Seventeen Years

Mr. R. F. Wilde, the well known landlord of the Union Hotel in this place, left for San Francisco yesterday morning to meet his sister, Mrs. Gehm of Merced, Mo., who is visiting friends and relatives on this coast. The meeting of the brother and sister was a most joyful one, as they had not met in seventeen years. Mrs. Gehm returns to her home in Missouri next week.

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somewhat the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

FOUGHT WITH POTATOES.

A Duel in Which a Preacher Demanded a Desperado.

A duelist, like many another man who takes himself too seriously, can sometimes be more powerfully influenced by ridicule than by anything else. A story current in Kentucky tells how Bill Bowman, who was a noted circuit preacher and a muscular Christian many years ago, once used this effective weapon with good results.

At one of his meetings a local desperado created a disturbance and on being publicly rebuked by Bowman sent him a challenge to fight. Bowman, as the challenged party, had the choice of weapons.

He selected a half bushel of Irish potatoes as big as his fist for each man and stipulated that his opponent must stand fifteen paces distant and that only one potato at a time should be taken from the measure.

The desperado was furious at being thus insulted and made an indignant protest, but Bowman reminded him that the challenged man had a right to choose his own weapons and threatened to denounce the desperado as a coward if he failed to come to time. As there was no way out of the box but to fight, the desperado consented.

The fight took place on the outskirts of the town. Everybody was present to see the fun. The seconds arranged the two men in position, by the side of each being a half bushel measure filled with potatoes as hard as bricks.

Bowman threw the first potato. It struck his opponent and flew into a hundred pieces. A yell of delight went up from the crowd. That disconcerted the desperado, and his potato flew wide of the mark.

Bowman watched his chance. Every time the desperado stooped for a potato another potato took him in the side. The sixth potato struck him in the short ribs, knocking the wind completely out of him and doubling him up on the grass.

The people were almost crazy with laughter, but Bowman looked as sober as if he had just finished preaching a funeral sermon. The desperado was taken home and put to bed, and there he lay for more than a week before he recovered from the effect of his potato duel. It was a long time before another duel took place in that region.—Youth's Companion.

Bartley Campbell's Letter Head.

Years ago when Bartley Campbell was regularly attached to Hooley's theater as the play writer for the stock company of that Chicago house, the clever but ill-fated author got out a letter head that few people ever saw, but that created no little amusement among Mr. Campbell's friends. In the left hand upper corner of the paper was a bust of Shakespeare surmounting a number of his plays. In the right hand corner was a corresponding bust of Mr. Campbell surmounting a number of his plays, and the startling legend uniting the two designs was this, "A Friendly Rivalry." Mr. Campbell did not at first see any reason for critical comment at his expense, but at the persuasion of a friend he reluctantly withdrew the letter head from circulation and prepared one in its stead that quietly ignored Mr. Shakespeare.

A Friend's Advice.

Jack—I have a chance to marry a poor girl whom I love, or a rich woman whom I do not love. What would you advise?

George—Love is the salt of life, my friend. Without it all else is naught. Love, pure love, makes poverty wealth, pain a joy, earth a heaven.

Jack—Enough. I will marry the poor girl whom I love.

George—Bravely spoken! By the way, would you—er—mind introducing me to the rich woman whom you do not love?—New York Weekly.

Cautious.

A little boy had come to school for the first time. The teacher, to encourage the children to speak, asked them simple questions, such as "How many feet have you?" etc. The cautious little man, however, listened without saying anything. At last the teacher, noticing this, said to him:

"How many feet did you say you had?"

Afraid of committing himself, he said, "Please, sir, I didn't say I had any."—London Answers.

Her Age.

An Ohio congressman who was judge of the court of special pleas in his district for ten years was once trying a case in which a woman was on the stand as a witness. "How old are you?" asked the attorney who was questioning her. The woman hesitated. "Don't hesitate," suggested the lawyer. "The longer you hesitate the older you will be."

A HAPPY SEQUEL.

The Result of a Felicitous Termination to a Novel.

A few years ago one of our most popular novelists was busily engaged in writing a serial novel for a London journal when a certain nobleman called on her in a state of intense excitement.

"Do tell me," said he, "have you finished the story now appearing in—?"

"Why, of course; some time ago," was the reply.

"Does the heroine die at the end?"

"Oh, certainly. After such consumptive symptoms as I have described how could she possibly live?"

"But you must make her live. You must change the catastrophe, for on your heroine's life depends my daughter's."

"Your daughter's?" exclaimed the novelist in surprise.

"Yes," was the startling rejoinder. "She has all the various symptoms of consumption which you have described and watches mournfully for every number of your novel, reading her own fate in that of your heroine. Now, if you make your heroine live I feel persuaded that my daughter, whose imagination has been very deeply impressed, will live too. Come, a life to save is a temptation!"

"Not to be resisted," added the novelist.

Consequently the last chapter was changed. The heroine recovered and was duly made happy. About five years after the novelist met the nobleman at a party.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, "let me introduce you to my daughter. I think she owes her life to you. There she is."

"What! That handsome woman who looks the very picture of health?"

"Yes; she is married, and has had three children."

"And my novel has had three editions," said the novelist with a laugh; "so we are quits."—London Tit-Bits.

A Certain Cure for Dysentery and Diarrhoea.

"Some years ago I was one of a party that intended making a long bicycle trip," says F. L. Taylor of New Albany, Bradford county, Pa. "I was taken suddenly with diarrhoea, and was about to give up the trip, when Editor Ward of the Laceyville Messenger suggested that I take a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I purchased a bottle, and took two doses, one before starting and one on the route. I made the trip successfully and never felt any ill effect. Again, last summer I was almost completely run down with an attack of dysentery. I bought a bottle of the same remedy and this time one dose cured me." Sold by F. Duhring.

"Of all the great men I have known," said Sir Edward Malet, the English diplomatist, in his just published volume of reminiscences, "President Lincoln is the one who has left upon me the impression of a sterling son of God. Straightforward, unflinching, not loving the work he had to do, but facing it with a bold and true heart; mild when he had a chance; stern as iron when the public weal required it, following a line to the goal which duty set before him. I can still feel the grip of his massive hand and the searching look of his kindly eye."

NO MISUNDERSTANDING.

The Farmer Told the Parson Why He Invited Him to Drink.

One cold Sunday morning as the worshippers from a little country church in England were slowly wending their way toward their homes a burly old Devonshire farmer might have been seen leaning over his yard gate, nodding his head and wishing a cheerful "Good day" to passersby.

At last his greetings became less frequent, and, telling himself that nearly every one must have passed, he was about to turn away when he descried the well known form of the vicar coming down the road.

"Very cold day, farmer," commented the clergyman as he drew near.

"Mortal cold, indeed," was the hearty response. "Be 'e too proud to step inside a minute an' taste a good glass o' sweet cider, pa'son?"

"I am not too proud, of course," returned the vicar amusedly, "but I will not accept your kind offer all the same, thank you, for, to tell you the truth, it is close upon my dinner hour, and I must go straight home."

"Then you bean't thirsty?"

"No, thanks."

"Look 'e here, pa'son!" exclaimed the farmer. "Us 'don't want to have no misunderstanding for want o' a few words o' explanation, an' I should like for 'e to know that I shouldn't have made so bold as to ask 'e to drink if it hadn't been for what I heard the doctor say to his son 'bout you as he went past my yard a quarter hour ago."

"What was that?" asked the vicar, with considerable interest.

"Why," said he, "The vicar is terrible dry this morning."

Japanese Serenity.

Perhaps the secret of the sweet expression and habitual serenity of the Japanese women can be found in their freedom from small worries. The fashion of dress never varying saves the wear of mind over that subject, and the bareness of the houses and simplicity of diet make housekeeping a mere bagatelle. Everything is exquisitely clean and easily kept so. There is no paint, no drapery, no crowd of little ornaments, no coming into the houses in the footwear worn in the dusty streets. And then the feeling of living in the rooms that can be turned into balconies and verandas at a moment's notice, of having walls that slide away as freely as do the scenes on the stage and let in all out of doors or change the suits of rooms to the shape and size that the whim of the day or the hour requires! The Japanese are learning much from us, some things not to their improvement. We might begin, with profit to ourselves, to learn of them.

Company Manners.

The pitfalls of company manners receive a fresh exemplification in the story of a woman who, having heard that it was impolite to press a guest to have more of a dish at table, thereby calling attention to the second serving, so instructed her daughter, previous to a dinner she was giving, charging her to act accordingly. At the table she heard her say, "Mr. X., will you have some oysters?" and immediately the mother exclaimed in a horrified tone:

"Why, hasn't Mr. X. been served to oysters yet?"

Whereupon the daughter responded that he had been helped three times, which contributed to the happiness of neither mamma nor Mr. X.

Peculiar Rainstorms.

There is at least one place in the United States where a man may be out in a heavy rain and not get wet even though he has neither mackintosh nor umbrella. In the Colorado desert they have rainstorms during which not a drop of water touches the earth. The rain can be seen falling from the clouds high above the desert, but when the water reaches the stratum of hot, dry air beneath the clouds it is entirely absorbed before falling half the distance to the ground. It is a singular sight to witness a heavy downpour of rain not a drop of which touches the ground. These strange rainstorms occur in regions where the shade temperature often ranges as high as 128 degrees F.

Seeing at a Distance.

To see objects at a distance of 100 miles the observer must be standing at a height of 6,667 feet above the level of the sea. The rule is that the distance in miles at which an object on the earth's surface may be seen is equal to the square root of one and a half times the height of the observer in feet above sea level, allowance being made for the effect of atmospheric refraction. This rule is often of value to ocean travelers in estimating a ship's distance.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

Baltimore, Md., March 30, 1902.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement, accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain

Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
